The Children of Ezekiel

My wife, Maria Lucrezia Johnson, recognized immediately after my father's death that this work must be published, and her encouragement and support to that end is most appreciated.

My mother, Lozell Kirby Johnson, has remained concerned that my father's work would not be published and, thankfully, at age 86, she may now see it happen. Regretfully, so many who have waited for this book have not lived to see it, and regretfully, those who have been born too late are not listed.

However, it is a proud moment for me to present what this book actually is -- the descendants of this Mormon couple, as furnished by all the countless families to the two compilers, who put it together, as part of their distinguished political/professional careers, to form one of the largest single family genealogies ever published in history.

Signs and Abbreviations

Used in This Work

In order to conserve space, a number of abbreviations, signs, and devices are used in this work, a list of which follows:

# This sign precedes and is a part of the number of each married person and also of each child who later marries and has a family.

* The asterisk refers to a footnote or other additional information.

? The interrogation point is used to indicate that the compilers are not sure the item is correct in every detail: the date, the place, the proper spelling, the correct transcription.

Co. County: Both the word and the abbreviation are usually omitted to conserve space. Example: Huntington, Emery, Utah.

"name" Quotation marks are used to enclose names not actual, such as nicknames, names through adoption, etc.

Stillborn and unnamed children have been omitted from the record.

ABOUT THE EZEKIEL PORTRAIT

It was related by his daughter Rosemary that JEJ, reading one day in some Civil War material, came upon the portrait of Wm. H. Seward, Secretary of State in Lincoln's cabinet. He exclaimed upon its resemblance to his father, Ezekiel, saying that it was a startling likeness, more like his father than any picture he had ever seen.

Rosemary's daughter Maude recalled this at a reunion of the Johnson Family when the question was raised as to the availability of an Ezekiel portrait for genealogical records. Maude discussed the problem and the story with her sculptor husband, Avard Fairbanks.

Avard studied the Sewart portrait, then examined all the pictures of Ezekiel's descendants available to him, noting the characteristics that persisted from generation to generation, sketched from life when practicable and so developed a composite portrait which we can accept with confidence as a close likeness of Ezekiel.

Deep appreciation to Avard Fairbanks is here expressed in behalf of the family of Ezekiel Johnson for the time, talent and effort expended in this labor of love.

AN OPEN VISION

(a quote from Father's history)

"About the first of February 1920, my brother-in-law, John F. Wakefield, came into my office for a short visit. He had in his hand a sheep-bound volume, which he handed to me saying, 'Here is a genealogical record of the Wakefield family' which he had just received and wanted my opinion on it.

"I took the book and chatted with him for some time on genealogical matters and when he finally said goodnight I began a close inspection of his book, in which I became so interested that I paid no attention to time of night which passed away so swiftly that when the clock struck five I was still looking at the book in which I found some Johnson names that I wanted to copy, but as the morning was at hand I concluded that I must get some sleep before the household began to stir. So I got up with the book in my hand, which I carelessly threw upon the table and in doing so, one of the covers flipped open exposing the following notice in very large letters, 'Let no man think that any other man ever made any money publishing genealogical books. This book cost $30,000 more than the sales of the book ever brought back.' I stood and looked at it again and read and reread that notice over again and thought I must be dreaming. I got up and walked the floor. What was I to do? For years I had been gathering the family records of my people with the intention that as soon as I could finish the collection, I would print it into a book even larger than this one. What could I do?

"I'm a typical Johnson with more family than fortune. How was I to print a book if it cost like that? How could I notify all my kindred that I had flunked? I had several hundreds of records and had spent the best years of my life and fortune in stamps and traveling expenses in my search. My heart was broken and like the multitudes on Pentacost, I cried out, 'Oh, what shall I do? I'll go to bed and sleep it off.'

"But I had no sooner lain down when I said to myself, 'Well, I'll quit,' and at that moment two men stood before me. They were dressed in the old colonial style, both of heavy middle build, one a little taller than the other. The shorter one, who stood in front, said, holding out his right hand pleadingly, 'Please don't quit. We want you to work for us.' The larger man stepped out in front and, holding out both hands in the most pleading manner, said, 'Oh, please don't quit, we want you to do our work. You are the only one now who can do it.'

"Of course, I was startled or surprised and wondered, 'Who are they?' When I began to ask them, they began to vanish out of sight, and were gone, and I was left to wonder who they were. (My wife heard all the conversation, but saw no one.) As I pondered, it intuitively came into my mind that the first speaker was my grandfather, Ezekiel Johnson, and the other, his father. But what work was I to do for them? They had not told me, but it appeared to me that my grandfather had died without the Priesthood, without a wife sealed or children adopted to him and that nothing was known of his ancestry. Surely, there was a great work to be done by someone and since I had been researching for his ancestry for years, and remembering that all of Ezekiel's children (with the exception of my father, George W. Johnson) had been adopted to John Smith and as my father was dead, it left me the only one to do his work. (All the rest of the Johnsons thought that they were Smiths.) So now my missionary work was apparent to me. I must convert my people to know their place genealogically. Traditionally they have been taught that their allegiance was to the Smiths, as our grandmother, Julia Hills Johnson, had been sealed to Patriarch John Smith instead of to her husband, Ezekiel Johnson, the father of her sixteen children. And remembering that the mission of Elijah was to "turn the hearts of the fathers to their children and the hearts of the children to their fathers,' my duty was to convert my own people to seek after our dead and honor our own father, which I set out to do after much time and prayer.

"By the first of June 1922, in company with my brother Amos and Thomas S. Johnson, I made a special trip down into southern Utah, where many of my people were living at and near Kanab, Cannonville, and Tropic. There I met with about 200 Johnsons and told them the history of the private life of Ezekiel as my father George W. had told it to me as well as my uncles Joel Hills and Benjamin F. and others who were there and knew and loved their father and mother.

"At the close of my remarks, I called a vote for all who were willing to honor their own father by working for his ancestors and descendants to rise. Every person was on his feet in a minute and I was authorized to go to the temples and undo the sealing to John Smith and seal Julia and Ezekiel together. Seth Johnson, a Patriarch of the Church and a senior in years of all descendants of Ezekiel and Julia at that time gave me a Patriarchal blessing on that date, June 6, 1922.

"I continued my missionary work by mail for Ezekiel. I have succeeded in converting them all and as a unit. Every descendant is now doing their bit. Genealogically they are now known by the appropriate title of "The Johnsons of the West.' This family has done more pioneering and homebuilding than any family in the church.

"On the first of April 1926, I and other relatives went to the Salt Lake Temple and had Ezekiel and Julia Hills Johnson sealed together with all sixteen sons and daughters. This was by the counsel of President Heber J. Grant and the apostles of that time."

SHORT BIOGRAPHY OF THE LIFE OF MILAS E. JOHNSON

Malachi 4: 5-6, "Behold I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord.

And he shall turn the hearts of the fathers to their children and the hearts of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse."

This was a passage of scripture that sank deep in the heart and soul of Milas Edgar Johnson, son of George Washington Johnson and Maria Jane Johnston. George's parents, Ezekiel and Julia Hills Johnson were early converts to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Julia Hills and members of her family embraced the gospel in the fall of 1831--a year following the organization of the Church. This in a sense made them charter members of the Mormon congregation.

George Washington and his wife Maria J. joined the Church in Tennessee in 1840 and came to Nauvoo to be with the Saints.

She lived in the home of the Prophet and Emma as a helper in caring for the children. She lived there until her marriage to George W. Johnson.

They suffered many hardships with other saints, from persecutions of the angry mobs. When the saints were driven out of Illinois, many of the families were already on their way, but George and a brother-in-law were assigned to stay as long as possible and care for the temple.

One night members of the mob set fire to the sacred temple and it was burned to the ground. It was a great sorrow to this family as they had helped to build it and loved it.

Now they had nothing to stay there for. So they gathered what they could and left for the Rocky Mountains to be with the family and other saints to worship in peace.

They went on their way with two wagons, Maria Jane driving one team and wagon with household necessities and family and supplies, George W. driving the other wagon carrying tools and grain to plant.

When they reached Ash Grove in Nebraska on the north bank of the Platte River, they encountered and were soon surrounded by buffalo as far as the eye could see. In all directions was a moving mass heading directly across their path. They parted left and right, some even passing over the wagon tongue between the team and the wagon. No one was hurt, as the Lord had heard their prayers.

About ten miles before they got to the crossing on the Platte River, the first wagon came to a halt. A son was born on the 31st of July 1851.

This was Milas Edgar. His father said that night a terrible storm arose, with the worst thunder and lightning and downpour of rain he had ever witnessed. Everyone was soaked through, even the bed the mother and newborn babe lay in. But the next morning the storm had moved on and they had sunshine to greet them so they continued on their travels. They reached Salt Lake City on the first of October. Here they visited and rested a few days. Then they went on to Summit Creek (Santaquin) where George's brother Benjamin was working to establish a colony.

Milas grew up learning the need for hard work in order to progress.

He loved to listen to the testimonies of his peers concerning the gospel and the reason to keep the commandments.

He was proud of his ancestors and their love of the Prophet Joseph Smith that they knew and loved so well. He developed a great urge to gather the records of his people. This he did through the rest of his life and learned more about them as he contacted them about their records. They too felt the spirit of gathering and soon hundreds of his kinsmen sent their family records to be compiled into a book to be published.

Milas worked diligently until death claimed him at the age of eighty-two years. Then his son Rolla Virgil Johnson, who had been a great help working with him, continued on this project. Still gathering, preparing them for the publication of the "Big Book," or the "Johnsons of the West," as he chose to call it, he had not quite completed the book when death called him home, also at the age of eighty-two.

Now with the special help of Rolla's son, Lt. Col. Max K. Johnson, and the surviving daughters of Milas E. Johnson - Margaret Young, Norma Woolsey, Mildred Johnson, and Deane Cook - the publication will be completed soon for all descendants of our noble pioneers to enjoy, learning of the nobility and spirituality of this great family.

ON THE PLAINS JULY 31st 1851

(On asking my son, Milas Johnson, who was born on the plains, how old he was, 1879, I just thought I was 28 years old when he was born.)

I'm 28, twenty-eight years old he said
What visions fill my mind
Of travels on the desert plain
Tornadoes, storms and wind
We had traveled many weary days
Upon the Desert Plain
When for refreshments we had stopped
Our little pilgrim train

A little stream went rippling by
The grass around was green
It seemed to us the brightest spot
For many days we'd seen
But hark the rifle crack I hear
That lays the bison low
And soon we feast upon the hump
Of the fated buffalo

But now the sun declining west
Foretells we must be gone
But hark I hear a woman's moan
As we are left alone
An hour goes by another hour
And yet we here remain
Oh glorious news a child is born
Upon the desert plain

And once again we're on our way
To over take the rest
But oh what visions fill the eye
Extending east and west
The Bison gathered on the plain
In millions, what a sight
And as we traveled on our way
They parted left and right

Now as the shades of night appear
Upon a distant flat
The cheerful camp fires we behold
Upon the River Platte
With joy again we meet our friends
Around the camp fire blaze
And late at night, retire to rest
To dream of better days

But oh that night the wind arose
The rain in torrents fell
The thunder rolled, the lightening flashed
More fierce than words can tell
The child and mother with the rest
Were drenched in every fold
And yet he lived to tell the tale
I'm twenty-eight years old.

Since then the years that past have made
Deep wrinkles on my brow
My hair is gray, mi sight is dim
I seem an old man now
But oft I think upon the time
The story I have told
When I was young and in my prime
Just twenty-eight years old.

Explanation: Of the above children, numbers 3,4,7,9,13, and 17 died unmarried and left no descendents. Numbers preceeded by the sign #, indicating that the person married, will be repeated later as fathers or mothers with their children. Only male children have the surname JOHNSON, and their records will be continued in Part I. The females, #5,#6,#8,#12, and #16, have married and are no longer surnamed Johnson; they are Sherman, Babbett, Barton, Wilson, and LeBaron and will be continued in Part II, where descendents who are not surnamed JOHNSON are listed. Exception: The descendents who marry Johnsons who are not descendents are listed in Part II. Look in Part I for the descendents of male Johnsons and look in Part II for the descendents of female Johnsons. These latter will continue to use the same index number they had in Part I before their marriage.

Beginning the parents of the first generation and the children of the second generation:

No issue. They separated 12 Apr 1930 and she was still single in 1955. I remember Mary Alice at Huntington in our school days though she attended the school for the deaf at Ogden where she made excellent grades. She was unusually intelligent, beautiful, excellent in deportment, and was always neatly dressed when she appeared in public.

NOTE: From Ancestors and Descendants of Jehu Cox by Wayne D. Stout, p. 292, we copy the following. "Thelma and Wesley were separated 17 December 1948. Early in 1949 Thelma advertised in the newspapers for a new husband. Her advertisement caused a sensation throughout the country. Every paper in the United States displayed her picture prominently on their front pages. The results were unbelievable. She received proposals from over 500 eager bachelors who wrote her from all parts of the world. The winner was one Robert Shrewsbury, a Salt Lake carpenter, who took her to Evanston, Wyoming, where the marriage took place 7 Jul 1949. The honeymoon ended three months later in the divorce court, 10 October 1949. Later, about 1950, Thelma married a Mr. Hall, Issue: Starlit Sue, born in 1951. Mr. Hall died 8 days after the marriage. The writer does not know what her present marital status is (March 1956)."
